Legacy Community Health Partners with Galena Park ISD with Two In-School Pediatric Clinics

Pediatric, behavioral health services offered to PreK-12 students

HOUSTON (September 2, 2020) – Legacy Community Health (Legacy), the largest federally qualified health center in Texas, has opened two clinics, one in each of two Galena Park I.S.D. campuses: North Shore Senior High School and Green Valley Elementary School. The clinics are a first-of-its-kind for Galena Park I.S.D., allowing students and their siblings direct access to pediatric and behavioral health services in Galena Park I.S.D., even as they start the 2020-2021 academic year virtually.

Amid the current worldwide health pandemic, Legacy has implemented telemedicine options for students to see health providers, with special accommodations for in-person visits on an as-needed basis. COVID-19 testing will also be available for students, their immediate family members, as well as school teachers and staff that meet testing criteria (as testing supplies remain available). Even though school is currently being done virtually, these vital mental health and medical services continue to be available to students and their families.

“Through the hard work of former Congressman Gene Green, Congresswoman Sylvia Garcia, and Galena Park I.S.D. leaders, I’m thrilled to see these clinics open for the students and their families,” says Katy Caldwell, CEO of Legacy Community Health. “We have heard time and time again from parents how convenient our school-based clinics are for working families, and with the current pandemic, it couldn’t have come at a better time. Parents don’t have to leave work for appointments, and children don’t have to miss class. For some working families and single-parent homes, our school-based clinics have been lifesavers. We hope to bring that same comfort and ease of care to the Galena Park community.”

Legacy provides full-spectrum health care to communities. In addition to their standalone clinics in Houston, Baytown, Deer Park, and Beaumont, Legacy also operates a successful fleet of 25 other school-based facilities at YES Prep and KIPP schools. These clinics offer behavioral health care and pediatric care to more than 8500 students all across the Houston area. Students enrolled in Galena Park I.S.D. now have access to the same Legacy care on their campuses.

"Galena Park I.S.D. is very thankful for the opportunity to partner with Legacy Community Health to provide two convenient and patient-friendly pediatric/behavioral health school-based clinics for our students. We look forward to a long and mutually-beneficial relationship with Legacy Community Health," said Dr. John Moore, Superintendent, Galena Park I.S.D.

Parents of students seeking treatment will have the option of billing their insurance company or paying out of pocket on a sliding-scale basis as they would in any other Legacy clinic.
